Judge Sullivan called the meeting to order at 3:32 p.m.

Present were: Judge Michael Sullivan; Steve Reinke, 9-101 Director; Sheriff Shane Nelson; Ken Hales, Community Justice Director; Chief Jim Porter, Bend Police Department; Shelly Smith, KIDS Center; DeAnn Carr, Deschutes County Health Services; Dave Cook, citizen member; John Hummel, District Attorney; Chief Dave Tarbet, Redmond Police Department; Keith Witcosky, Redmond City Manager; Judge Alta Brady; Jeff Hall, Circuit Court Administrator; Barb Campbell, Bend City Council; Tom Anderson, Deschutes County Administrator; Jacques DeKalb, Defense Attorney; and Commissioner Tammy Baney.

Also in attendance were citizens Roger Olson of NAMI, Marilyn Burwell, Jack and Andrea Blum, Deevy Holcomb of Juvenile Community Justice; and Tanner Wark and Treavor Stephens of Parole & Probation.

2. Approval of September 1, 2015 Meeting Minutes

HALES: Move approval of minutes as presented.

WITCOSKY: Second.

The minutes of the 09/01/2015 PSCC meeting were unanimously approved.

3. Public Comment

Marilyn Burwell, representing the Restorative Justice Group, approached the committee to announce the upcoming screening of a film called Paper Tigers. This is a documentary film about the use of restorative justice techniques in an alternative school in Washington showing radical discipline approaches. The screening is on November 10 in the La Pine High School auditorium. Sheriff Nelson added that the Bend-La Pine School District will be providing a one-to-two day training regarding this film.

4. Juvenile Crime Prevention Plan

Deevy Holcomb, Juvenile Community Justice, gave a presentation of the Deschutes County Juvenile Crime Prevention Plan for 2015-2017. The overview reviewed populations that include targeted/at-risk youth and selected/high-risk youth.

5. Erin's Law

Shelly Smith reported that Erin's Law is Senate Bill 856, created to enhance the amount of child sexual abuse training available in schools, and to develop training for the students at least once per year. This requires public schools to increase training to four times per year to educate them on healthy and unhealthy touch, and requires parents and adults to be informed and educated as well. This should increase the awareness of sexual abuse within the schools.

6. Justice Reinvestment Program Application Amendment

Ken Hales asked the group for approval to amend the Victims' Services Grant Program application. The original funds were split between KIDS center, CASA and Mary's Place, and he is requesting that the original amount intended for CASA be given to KIDS Center and Mary's Place. Based on discussions with criminal justice staff and the victims' assistance review panel, he has good cause to believe the application will not be approved because of the CASA component. If the grant application is not approved, there will not be an opportunity to amend it.

The victim's panel meets next on November 9, and their decision would send the application to the Commission on November 23. At that point, the Commission takes it to the final meeting. Mr. Hales stated we are in the position where we need to submit the application to ensure the best review of the application. His concern is to secure the grant for the community. The total amount applied for is $1.7 million.

Discussion was held on the services provided to the community. Unfortunately, according to the information on the application, CASA does not meet the minimum qualifications. Comments were heard on the various grant processes and services experiences.

Judge Sullivan called for a vote. Eleven members voted in favor of the amendment and two members were opposed. The motion was carried to approve the amendment to the Victim Services' Grant Program application.

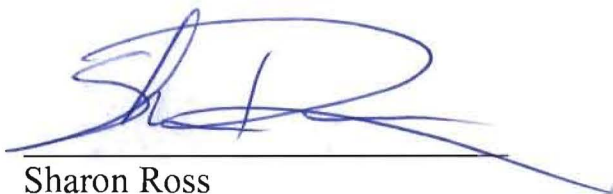

7. Other Business

- Information in the packet includes an announcement of an upcoming conference entitled The Public Safety Culture Shift, and a notice from the Oregon Criminal Justice Commission regarding an event on Justice Reinvestment.
- Commissioner Baney reported there is an additional showing of Paper Tigers on December 11 at Bend Senior High School.

The next meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, December 1, 2015.

Being no other business discussed, Judge Sullivan adjourned the meeting at 4:28 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,

Sharon Ross

Statement for LPSCC – November 2015

La Pine High School is hosting a screening of Paper Tigers, a documentary film about the use of restorative justice techniques in an alternative school in Walla Walla, Washington.

The film follows six students over the course of a school year. During the course of that year, the school radically changed its approach to disciplining its students while becoming a promising model for breaking the cycles of poverty, violence and disease that affect families. Unbroken, these cycles can lead students into the criminal justice system.

Our community needs a conversation about the challenges that face our youth. Our schools have many students with multiple Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACE's). Multiple ACE'S impact school success, health, and our community.

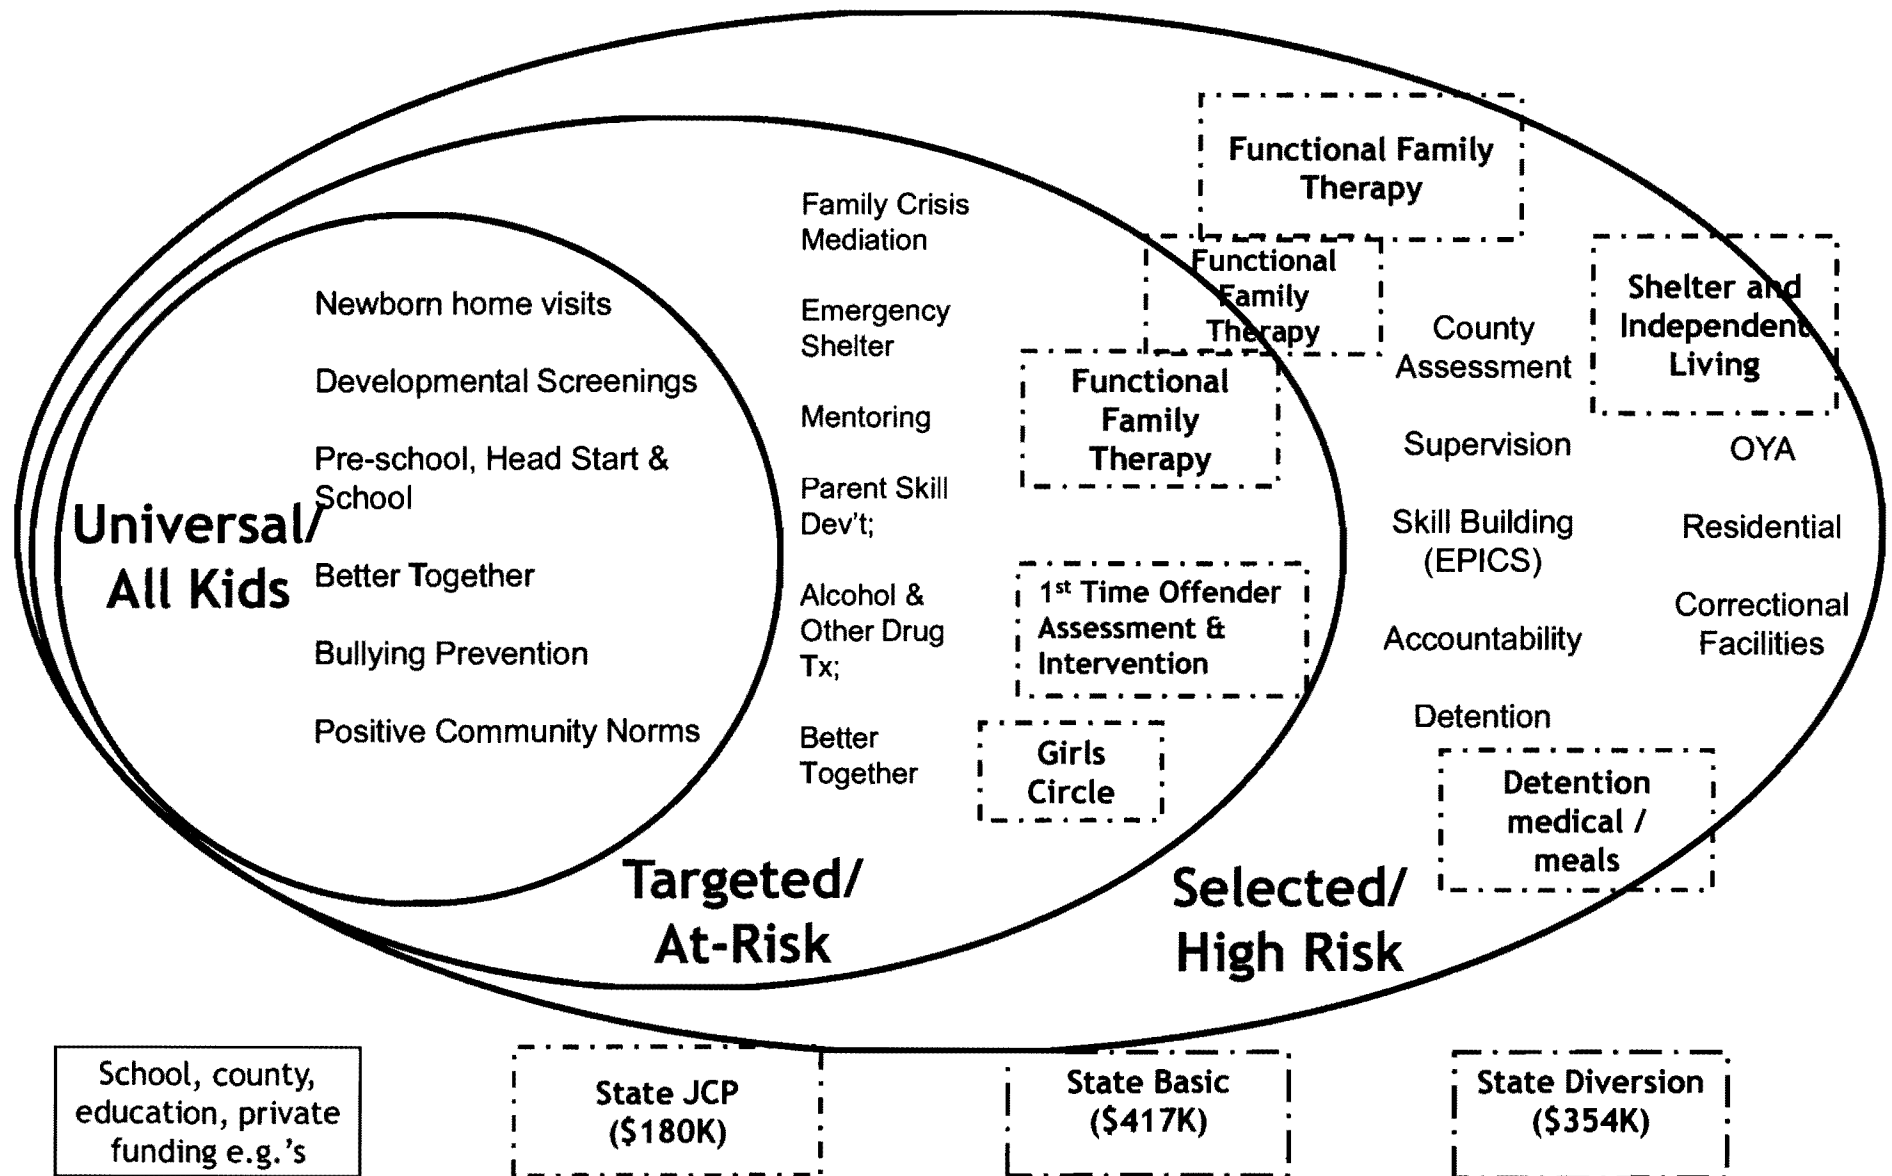

You are invited to attend this screening.

Tuesday, November 10th
6:00pm
La Pine High School Auditorium

It is especially important that school police officers attend this screening.

Thanks, Marilyn Burwell, the Restorative Justice Group, Bend

The What Works in Public Safety Conference brings together a local audience with local and national experts to present current trends and cutting edge practices to improve public safety. Past conference topics have included juvenile justice and behavioral health. Partnership with the Oregon Criminal Justice Commission will expand the conference to a statewide audience.

What is Erin's Law?

In 2015, the Oregon legislature passed SB 856, also known as Erin's Law. Effective immediately, Erin's Law requires the development and adoption of child sexual abuse prevention programs for students in kindergarten through 12th grade in all Oregon public schools. Recommendations for curriculum have yet to be identified, but SB 856 sets certain guidelines about what should be taught. Oregon is the 24th state to pass a version of Erin's Law.

Did Oregon already require sexual abuse prevention education in schools?

Yes. ORS 339.400 requires school districts and other defined 'education providers' to train employees on identification and prevention of sexual abuse, and to develop and implement training on sexual abuse prevention for students at least once per year. This information has commonly been taught to students as part of standard human sexuality education. The Oregon Department of Education (ODE) provides professional training to school personnel regarding sexual health, health relationships, and mandatory reporting.

What's different about Erin's Law?

While previous statute applied to all education providers in Oregon, Erin's Law requirements apply only to public schools. The new requirements provide further standards for sexual abuse prevention instruction, including more detailed curriculum requirements than previous statute, a more frequent schedule of instruction (four times per school year as opposed to one or two under previous statute), and an evaluation component with measurable outcomes. Erin's Law also requires a professional training component for administrators, teachers, and other school personnel regarding communicating these topics to students, and a parental involvement component to inform parents about the characteristics of sexual predators and provide instruction on how to discuss these topics with their children.

How will the new requirements be funded?

At this time, no new funding has been made available for school districts to meet the requirements of Erin's law. At least one bill has been introduced at the federal level that would provide funding for states passing Erin's law.

What are the next steps for implementation?

All public school districts in Oregon should be working to update their current curriculum to meet the new requirements. ONCAIC is working to learn more about what ODE is doing to support districts in making these changes, and opportunities for how child abuse intervention centers can support these efforts. We also hope to be involved in the decisions around recommended curriculum. We will provide more information as it becomes available.

Screening of the Documentary Paper Tigers

La Pine High School is hosting a screening of Paper Tigers, a documentary that captures the pain, danger, beauty and hopes of struggling teens—and the teachers equipped with new science and fresh approaches that are changing lives for the better.

Paper Tigers is an intimate look into the lives of selected students at Lincoln High School, an alternative school that specializes in educating traumatized youth. Set amidst the struggling rural community of Walla Walla, WA, the film intimately examines the inspiring promise of Trauma-Informed Communities - a movement that is showing great promise in healing youth struggling with the dark legacy of Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACEs). Following six students over the course of a school year, we see Lincoln's staff try a new approach to discipline: one based on restorative justice techniques of understanding and treatment rather than judgment and suspension.
